TORONTO SALVAGE CAMPAIGN GOES OVER THE TOP

THIS YEAR Toronto has a special birthday gift for Hitler. Salvage collected in a city-wide campaign will be made into tools of war and delivered to "der Fuehrer," in "der neck."

THIS PICTURE gives some idea of the rubber donated by citizens to keep the wheels rolling against Axis armies of aggression. Close examination wouldn't reveal much to arouse motorists' envy.

THE VARIETY of donations may be gathered from this picture. Two children living near by found that this little auto, although given up for salvage, still had plenty of "go" left.

HERE, AT DAVENPORT RD. and St. Clarens Ave., is one of the four large salvage dumps in the city. Each dump contains as much scrap as was expected from the whole city. The many kinds of salvage were sorted as they arrived, then piled to await final processing by Toronto scrap dealers. The success of this salvage campaign may result in similar collections periodically.

MOWING DOWN all that comes in its way, this American-made medium tank, of the type used in Libya and the Philippines, passes its initial test with power to spare. The medium tank used in Canada's highly mechanized army is the "Ram," designed by Maj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington. Produced in Canada, some recently arrived in England. It is heavily armed and armored, but quite speedy.

TANKS MAKE MATCHWOOD OUT OF LOG AND BARN

PICTURED ON THIS PAGE is an American-made medium tank undergoing various tests which it must pass before being accepted by the army. The tank is comparable to the Canadian "Ram" tank which Maj.-Gen. Worthington has designed since the outbreak of war. The now famous "Ram" bears an insignia containing the picture of a Rocky Mountain ram, a stalwart and stout-hearted animal after which the tank was named. The design of the "Ram" is a composite of the best in British and U.S. medium tanks, and was begun by Gen. Worthington in the summer of 1940. The whole affair was kept secret until production was under way.

EXECUTIVES AND WORKERS, perched at various vantage points, watch the iron war-horse put through its paces. Here a telephone pole is snapped off and crushed into the ground like matchwood.

HERE ONLOOKERS roar approval as the tank beetles right through a wooden building. Proving grounds are tough, but war is tougher, and the "steel cavalry" must be as foolproof as possible.

THE BUILDING IS COMPLETELY destroyed as the tank emerges, shaking itself free of broken boards. Six to nothing was the score for this type of tank in one engagement against Japanese in Bataan.

"INVINCIBLE" NAZIS STILL FIND REDS INVINCIBLE

MEMBERS of a Soviet tank-destroyer corps, ABOVE, keep up their skill by practising grenade throwing as if it were an enemy tank advancing toward them. LEFT is proof the Nazis have no respect for monuments of culture. In Odessa a bomb was dropped on a famous literary shrine, the house in which Alexander Pushkin, the poet whom Russians regard as their Shakespeare, once lived. The more than a century old building stood the blow remarkably well. The street is named after Pushkin and his name is also recorded in the capital letters in Russian script at the bottom of the upper plaque on the wall. BELOW, a jolly group of the Soviet's Jack Tars dressed in naval garb traditional in capitalistic countries is having a friendly tug of war during manoeuvres in the Black sea.

REPORTS FROM the Russian front indicate that tank warfare is increasing in scope and intensity, and battles between great tank forces will likely be seen shortly. Here is the leader in a column of Soviet tanks advancing to an attack. References have been made in news dispatches to Red army "super" tanks which have driven head-on into German anti-tank fire with only slight damage.

IDENTIFIED ONLY as "M," a Soviet village on the Moscow front goes up in flames as vengeful Nazis, forced to retreat, set fire to wooden homes and butcher the inhabitants. Similar destruction marks all Nazi retreats.

SINCE THE BEGINNING of their counter-drive, Russian forces have occupied many hundreds of inhabited points. Here is a group of Red army tanks in the process of reoccupying a Russian village identified in dispatches as "T."

MARSHAL Semyon Timoshenko (with the field glasses) and General Gregori Zhukov are shown during tactical exercises of the Soviet army. Recent reports place Timoshenko in command of the vital Donets basin area with Zhukov in command of a sector on the central front.

THE CANADIAN NAVY HELPS DELIVER THE TOOLS

A SIGHT TO GLADDEN the heart of anyone today—be he old salt or landlubber. The picture shows corvettes of the Canadian navy lying three deep alongside newly built jetties and wharves at an eastern port. The scene can be duplicated at three other harbors, each the focal point for convoy protection service. Tough ships, they face a most critically tough job this coming summer.

WINTER HAS GIVEN small help to the Allies. Here all hands on a corvette strip ice after a hard voyage. Recently Churchill said the Atlantic struggle had "taken a turn for the worse."

WEAR AND TEAR OF SERVICE are clearly shown in this view of destroyers being loaded. Note the difference between the streamlined new craft (background) and the veteran in the foreground.

ON CONVOY DUTY the destroyer uses its speed to round up straggling merchantmen and be on continual alert for its arch-enemy, the U-boat. Here is the once-torpedoed veteran Saguenay.

VICHY RELEASES FIRST PICTURES OF PARIS RAID

FANTASTIC PHASE in a fantastic war was reached when British bombers piloted by Canadians raided Paris, March 3. These first on-the-spot photos of damage were lately released by the French censor. Principal target of the British was the Renault plant which has been turning out tanks for Hitler. The raid was so much a surprise that there was little opposition from the enemy. In a rough estimate, the air ministry announced that enough French-built tanks to equip five Nazi divisions were destroyed.

VICHY CENSOR-PASSED caption on this picture reads "Refugees From Aggression Search the Ruins for Whatever Remains." The British, however, believe the French well know how much remains to them under Nazi rule and would prefer a few unavoidable deaths under British bombs than the slow mass strangulation of their present rulers. Leaflets dropped with the bombs said they were aimed at plants manufacturing arms for the 'common enemy.' Reports of sabotage for the same purpose increased afterwards.

"WHEN I'M A MAN"—SAYS TOMMY

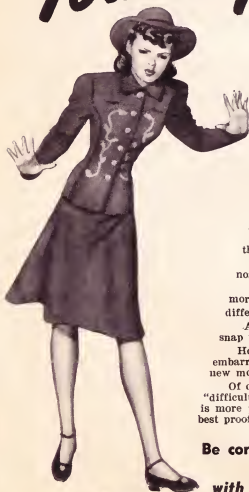

YOUNG TOMMY is in the throes of deciding what he'll be when he grows up, and tries on an explorer's hat as a starter. That's something for a real he-man!

BUT A GOOD "Hawkshaw" can always find a job, Tommy thinks. Besides, travel is restricted these days.

You're fit to be tied!...

WHAT A DAY! Words with mother over that perfume you charged . . . late to your first class . . . spilled your ice cream at lunch . . . and now this!

Actually, you're afraid to think of tonight!

That blonde tigress had a gleam in her eye last time . . . what if she stalks your "Mr. Big" in earnest? Can you charm that prom bid out of him? . . . feeling the way you do?

Well, calm yourself! In this day and age, there's little excuse for letting trying days of the month ruin a sunny disposition!

Say Goodbye to Glooms!

Look around you . . . other girls always seem to be carefree and gay, regardless of days circled on their calendars.

But do you know why? Maybe you never realized . . . most of them choose Kotex sanitary napkins!

For one thing, when you're comfortable, your troubles take a nosedive! And Kotex is more comfortable . . . see if it isn't!

Kotex is made in soft folds that are naturally less bulky . . . more comfortable . . . made to stay soft while wearing! A lot different from pads that only "feel" soft at first touch.

As for your lingering doubts and fears . . . with Kotex you can snap your fingers at worry.

Honestly! Because Kotex has flat, pressed ends to prevent embarrassing, telltale bulges . . . to keep your secret safe. And a new moisture-resistant "safety shield" for extra protection.

Of course there's a moral . . . let Kotex help you sail through "difficult days." After all, millions can't be wrong . . . and Kotex is more popular than all other brands of pads put together. The best proof that Kotex stays soft!

Be confident . . . comfortable . . . carefree

INDIA'S FIGHTING MEN READY TO FACE INVASION

NATIVE TROOPS from India have already had a notable share in British military operations in such war zones as Ethiopia, Libya, Iran and Iraq, Palestine, Syria, Malaya and Hong Kong, and with more than a million of their compatriots are now ready to defend their homeland. These fine types of fighting men belong to the Royal Indian Army Service Corps, which was with British in France.

NATIONAL UNITY is a difficult problem in India, where scores of followers of different religions intermingle. Here is a spike-sitting Hindoo fakir. In spite of the failure of Sir Stafford Cripps' mission, however, there is no feeling that India will gain by playing the Japanese game.

THERE ARE many Bhils enrolled in the crack Indian cavalry regiments. Here is a Bhil soldier mounted on his horse. A relatively primitive people, the Bhils live by hunting with bow and arrow, spearing fish in the lakes.

MANY OF THE COLLEGES in India have been carrying on intensive training of their staffs and students in military science, as at the Lahore college, pictured here. They are supplied with rifles and small arms made in India.

DESPITE THE EMPHASIS on speed and movement in modern warfare, the "impregnable" fortress has not been forgotten. Here is Gibraltar, one of the world's most heavily fortified positions, as portrayed by The Star Weekly. A haven for British ships, with heavy guns commanding the western entrance of the Mediterranean, Gibraltar is a thorn in the side of the Axis powers. The whole rock is honeycombed with tunnels and storerooms, providing a bombproof citadel capable of holding out through a lengthy siege.

NAZIS WIN A ROUND IN WORLD-WIDE NAVAL BATTLE

GERMAN-CENSORED caption for this picture says it is a scene aboard the cruiser Prinz Eugen, firing at British planes during its channel dash. Caption failed to add that the cruiser was badly crippled by a torpedo hit.

ANOTHER American tanker sinks below the waters of the Atlantic off the coast of Georgia after being torpedoed and shelled by an Axis submarine. The shell holes can be clearly seen on the ship's side at the forward end, causing the smoke and fire over the forecabin. Calling for a huge submarine-building program, U.S. Senator Carl Vinson said war in Atlantic was a submarine war.

NAZIS LEARN ABOUT SOVIET MUD

GENERAL MUD is plainly in supreme command in this sector of the thawing Russian front. This Nazi truck had to be pulled out of the morass by a tractor. Germans blame such conditions as this for their failure to progress.

BRIGHTEN your SMILE the Dentist's way with Powder and water

Why do dentists, when they clean teeth, use powder and water almost exclusively? There's one big reason—experience proves nothing can surpass these two simple cleansers in safe, effective action.

Knowing this, why should you ever pay for water in a dentifrice? You've plenty of that at home! Get DR. LYON'S TOOTH POWDER, use it on a moist brush, and save money while you brighten your smile! Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is all powder—all cleanser. Not a trace of acid, grit or pumice. Developed by a practising dentist, Dr. Lyon's gives teeth the daily care they need—cleans and brightens them, refreshes the mouth—and at the same time gives you assurance that nothing it contains can scratch or injure delicate tooth enamel.

Matched for price, Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder outlasts tooth paste two-to-one. Get it at your nearest drugstore.

TRAIL OF '42 TO ALASKA

SPEED IS THE MOTTO of the Alaska road builders. To hasten progress, they laid a plank roadway on the frozen Peace river even though the spring thaw was just around the corner. The limit was 3 miles an hour but that was faster time than was possible on honeycombed ice. A ferry is now working.

TWO ON A SINGLE COUCH underneath the hall stairs in a crowded Dawson Creek, B.C., hotel, these young U.S. soldiers sleep as soundly as old Rip Van Winkle. The boy on the extreme edge hasn't got the edge at all. That chair is there to keep him from rolling off. He's lucky, at that, to get half a bed.

THE ALASKA ROAD RUSH has got the old-time Yukon gold rush really beaten as a post-haste trek. To do the job in jig time, the American army is bringing in thousands of tons of supplies by road and rail to the B.C. and Alberta jumping-off places. Other materials will go via the coast.

"I told you career women don't make good mothers!"

1. The girls were pulling someone apart, and I heard them mention "career women." Then I knew they were talking about me! So I decided to hear how far they'd go... "Why, Anne, she runs that baby the way she runs her office! He's so pampered. She's got special soap, special powder... and even a special laxative. Why..."

2. "Hold on, Lucy!" I interrupted. "I'd better join this conversation since it's about me! Seems to me I'm a pretty sensible mother. Especially about that laxative! You wouldn't give a baby the same foods you eat, would you?"

3. "It may interest you to know that our doctor has approved Castoria because it's mild and safe and because it is made especially for children. Babies aren't just small editions of adults. They're babies."

4. "You know, medicine strong enough for us can be too strong for a baby's little insides. That's why Castoria is so perfect. It's not 'harsh' or gripping... it's gentle as can be. Come on over and ask the druggist."

5. Well, the druggist said Castoria was the finest children's laxative he knew. Its chief ingredient, he said, is senna. Senna is not habit-forming, and in Castoria, senna has been especially processed to eliminate gripping.

6. "You see," he went on, "senna works mostly in the bowel... doesn't upset little stomachs. It works almost 'naturally,' without irritation—in about 8 to 12 hours, so it doesn't interfere with a child's sleep. That's why I always recommend Castoria, and suggest the money-saving Family Size."

7. We went home, and Bobby needed a laxative, so I gave him Castoria. He took it, grinning. P. S. I haven't heard a word about "career" women since.

Always take a laxative only as directed on the package or by your physician.

THE EVER-FORMAL PENGUIN in his ever-formal dress is here presented just in case anyone labors under the delusion that personality is confined to Homo Sapiens. This delegation was wholly unimpressed by Antarctic visitors.

THE NEVER-FORMAL PORPOISE—on the other hand—is the sportive play-boy type, ready to go along with any gag, or improve on it, as above. Another old porpoise joke is to make a long leaping line look like a sea-serpent.

JAP CITIES FEEL WEIGHT OF AMERICAN BOMBS

KOBE WAS ONE of the big Japanese cities which suffered damage from the recent raid by American long-range bombers. This picture shows a shopping district and its main street, Motomachi.

TOKYO HAD A FORETASTE of the wrath to come when the U.S. bombs dropped in the city's central Marunouchi and Kyobashi districts, which contain Japan's biggest banks and skyscrapers.

A TOKYO FIREMAN scans the roof top. The sudden first raid caught them all napping, it was reported.

JAPANESE SCHOOL GIRLS are trained to act as firefighters and, no doubt, as time goes on and American planes return in ever-increasing numbers, will have plenty of opportunity to test their skill at extinguishing incendiary bombs. For years Japan has been training all citizens, adults as well as school children, to deal with air raid damage in expectation of the day that finally arrived.

THIS EAGLE CAN ATTACK PARACHUTISTS

MR. RAMSHAW, a golden eagle, now in New York on a demonstration tour, makes a three-point landing on his trainer's outstretched wrist. Capt. C. W. Knight, English falconer, trained the bird from its nestling days and it could be used to attack enemy parachute troops. A year ago, Mr. Ramshaw had a miraculous rescue from a freighter which after being torpedoed was abandoned. Later the ship was beached and the bird was found alive.

THIS CLOSE-UP of Mr. Ramshaw in statuette pose gives little idea of the 150-mile-per-hour speed the eagle can reach at top flight with his seven-foot wing spread. When a dive bomber like that lands with claws sharp as steel, the falconer needs his leather glove.

BRITAIN TURNS WASTE PAPER INTO MUNITIONS

A SALVAGE DRIVE for waste paper for use in making munitions is being vigorously conducted in Canada. Duplicated are the scenes here. Above, Englishmen feed salvage to a machine which heats and shreds it into pulp.

THIS STRONG GIRL in the pulping factory can vie with London's Covent Garden porters in carrying heavy loads. The large basket is on its way to be sorted.

A USE IS FOUND for old ledgers that have long been forgotten in dusty vaults. Every company has plenty of such record books, and they've yielded thousands of tons of just the kind of paper the munition makers desire.

GRADING OF THE PAPER is very important and acid tests are used to separate the best varieties from those of inferior quality. This girl is a sorter, and after she's through the paper will be baled in various grades.

NEW DODGES FOR LAND, SEA AND AIR

BRITAIN'S ANSWER to German's E-boats is this new and much speedier motor torpedo boat. Though 70 feet long, it is smaller than its Nazi rival; but, powered by gasoline, has more speed than the Diesel-engined "E" craft. It patrols the coast and of high speed skims the waves like a swallow.

AIRMEN'S leg muscles are built up by this new wrinkle in physical training. It is a matter of weights and pulleys, with sergeant as boss.

U.S. ARMY ENGINEERS claim their new pontoon bridges are more efficient than any other military bridges in existence. Here a woman worker in a rubber factory completes a pneumatic pontoon for use in a raft or bridge.

AUSSIES GIRD FOR ATTACK AS JAP THREAT RECEDES

AUSTRALIA NOW is the Britain of the East, an outpost to hold for an eventual springboard of attack. Aussie troops here swing a heavy 60-pound long-range field gun into position for action.

AUSTRALIAN SHOPKEEPERS in Sydney don't intend to be caught napping if Jap bombs start falling. Show-windows are being replaced by planks to reduce the menace from flying glass splinters.

A TRENCH MORTAR CREW carries out live ammunition practice from a gun-pit in a concealed position covering a portion of the Australian coast-line. The weapon was manufactured in Australia.

Libby's "Gentle Press" TOMATO JUICE

Good Health

That tomato products are now on the preferred food list of the British Government is official recognition that the vitamins A and C contained in tomatoes are invaluable in protecting the health and strength of a country at war.

Libby's exclusive "gentle press" process retains the garden-fresh flavour and brings to you the health-giving vitamins A and C. Vitamin A promotes buoyant health and builds resistance to infection—a "beauty" vitamin important to health of skin, hair and nails. Vitamin C promotes the growth of strong bones, good teeth and assists in the maintenance of a high level of positive health.

Canadians need these vitamins A and C. We're working harder and longer than ever before and the Vitamins A and C contained in Libby's Tomato Juice will help us to "carry on" in good health. Particularly among growing families, Libby's Tomato Juice has a regular place on the daily menu.

The popularity of Libby's Tomato Juice is indicated by the fact that Canadians drink more tomato juice than all other fruit juices combined—and Canadians have made LIBBY'S "gentle press" TOMATO JUICE their first choice among tomato juices. Drink Libby's Tomato Juice—as a morning "pick-me-up"—as a luncheon appetizer—as a dinner cocktail—as a delicious thirst-quencher anytime.

DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK
If you don't agree it's the most delicious tomato juice you've ever tasted, Libby's will pay you DOUBLE your money back.
